Ex-Sergeant Opens "Buddy Exchange"

NEW YORK, N. Y .- Ex-Sergeant Norton Roth, 24-year-old war NEW YORK, N. Y.— Ex-Sergeant Norton Roth, 24-year-old war veteran, discharged four months ago, and now a Broadway restaurant owner, has hit upon an idea which is guaranteed to make many an ex-buddy happy. He has started a "Veteran's Exchange," avowed purpose of which is reuniting war-time buddies who became separated purpose of which is reuniting war-time buddies who became separated purpose of which is reculting and indexing names, outlits, and after leaving the services. He carefully files all requests for information and location of buddies, taking and indexing names, outlits, and all other information which might help. He has located several hundred boys this way, and an email to his "Exchange," which is only two months old, is getting heavier each day. Here he and his secretary Helen Perkus go over one of the files in search for somebody's buddy.

FARM PROGRAM:

New Proposals

A new farm program calling for a combination of sound open market practices and governmental assistance was proposed by the special house committee on postwar economic policy and planning headed by Representative Colmer (Dem., Miss.).

In recommending changes in present farm legislation," the committee urged:

Greater flexibility be allowed in farm prices, especially toward each other,

Supply and demand be given greater opportunity to determine farm prices rather than

Re-examination of the outmoded parity price formula designed to give farmers an income on a par with industrial workers.

According to reports, Jack Marshall was a very fascinating person. Wel:, as far as Virginia was concerned, she didn't care a snap about this Jack person in particular, It was the principle of the thing, Virginia thought it unfair, just because she had been transferred from her home town to the Trust company here and consequently knew very few people, that she should be deprived of the opportunity of meeting eligible men like other girls her age.

"Oh, well," Virginia sighed to herself, "What's the difference?" As she turned away from the winlost in thought, she didn't even see the car that rounded the corner, nesses among war veterans. The driver slammed on the brakes but not before Virginia had stepped off the curb and been splashed from head to foot with dirty, slushy water. It was all she needed at the moment! "I say, I am sorry! I . . ." Vir-

"Heaven knows; who can say?" For many days following, Virginia watched for the man who had splashed her but there was no sign

One day Mrs. Baker called and that demands for more money invited Virginia to a cocktail party on the following Friday and the same day she was asked to again fill in at the bridge club. As she expected, the conversation kept reverting to Jack Marshall every time one of the girls was dummy.

"It's too bad you haven't even met him, Virginia. He's really keen."

"She'll probably meet him at Mrs. Baker's Friday," Bessle said this with such an inflection in her voice that she might as well have added, "but what good will that

Virginia was about the last to arrive at the cockiall party. Mrs. Daker was charming as she led her from group to group, introducing her with many flattering remarks. Suddenly she laughed.

"I want you to meet Jack Marshall but I'm afraid we'll have to use dynamite to break through that defense!" However, as soon as Mrs. Baker approached, Virginia's bridge partners moved to one side with deference.

Jack Marshalll

Mrs. Baker was only half through the introduction when Jack interrupted. "Mrs. Baker, we've met! Believe it or not. I've been looking for Miss Small for two weeks but nobody seemed to know where you were or to what rooming house I was referring."

The girls all gared.

"Well, you'll take care of Virginia? You know where the punch-bowl is!" Mrs. Baker said, 'A thrill June, a fact that may presage an shot through Virginia as Jack placed his hand on her arm. She knew the girls could hear every word and she was glad that Bessle, especially, was taking it all in

* Mental Illness Clinics

In addition to 32 clinics alreadyauthorized, the Veterans' administration has directed the establishment of as many such clinics asdow and started to cross the street, necessary in the 70 regional officesfor the treatment of mental ill-

According to the announcement, the need for treatment of these emotional and nervous diseases is evident and experience in civilian practice both before and during the war indicates that a majority of such cases can be treated in clinics: without hospitalization.

In the mental hygiene program, emphasis will be placed on group therapy which is the simultaneous treatment of a number of veterans suffering from similar mental or emotional disturbances. The neuropsychiatrist, clinical psychologist and social worker will co-operate as a team in these clinics in treating the patient.

Questions and Answers

Q. Can my daughter, who is engaged to a young fellow overseas,. book passage on a boat and be married to him while he is still in service in Germany?--S. P., Havre de-Grace, Md.

A. The war department says the procedure is for the girl to writethe boy telling him to get permission from the commanding general, European theatre, for entrance of the girl into the area for the purpose of his marriage. When he receives this letter of permission from the commanding general, he should. mail it to the girl. She will then: take the letter along with passport. application to the state department. and apply for passport and visa toget overseas. She then must arrange for her passage and pay her own way.

Q. My husband was in the army three years, from 1905 to 1908, and, was in the Ute Indian campaign. Would he be entitled to a pension? He is not disabled from military service.—Mrs. R. F. J., Mahlowa,

A. There is provision for both disability and death pensions for Indian wars. I am not sure, however, whether these provisions apply to the period 1905 to 1908. They apparently apply to earlier Indian. wars. However, to be sure, you should take it up with your nearest Veterans' administration office.

Q. I am a World War II veteran and would like to start farming. I suming as much dignity as possible kept hearing over the radio that I she accepted his invitation. A. Provisions of this law are that the Veterans' administration will approve a loan up to $4,000 for an eligible veteran, if the lending institution will make the loan. The bank or other lender is the Judge of whether or not the veteran is a good risk and is likely to succeed. at his venture.

Q. My son was discharged from the army in February, 1946, He was overscan 25 months and while in. the army he had to work so hard he could not rest at night and would wander around in his sleep. Sinco he is at home the same thing happens when he works hard. He can't get any rest at night. He wasn't this way until he went into the army. Would It be possible that he is eligible for a disability pay? -Mrs. J. L. E., Illckory Plat, Miss.

A. It might be possible. The only way to find out is for your son to apply to your nearest office of the Veterans' administration and ask for an examination and disability rat-

Q. My son was killed in action. in World War II. Ills insurance was made to his mother. We are divorced. I am 55 years old and not able to work. Can I draw a dependent parent's pension? If so, how much and where shall I apply?-

D. V. M., Perguson, W. Va. A. Yes, although divorced, as . lependent father you should be enlitled to $25 per month, Make application to the Veterans' administration office at Huntington.

Q, My husband is a veleran of World War I, serving overseas IL months. He has a 50 per cent permanent disability given in 1930. This disability becomes worse, Is he eligible for pension? If so, where can he get help?-Mrs. M. L., Fort Payne, Ala.

A. Your husband evidently had a disability rating from the Veterans' administration which likely was wiped out by the economy act of 1933, Suggest that he contact bis nearest office of the Volksans' soministration for a new distactor rating.

W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Martha continued the story of how she had awakened to find Letty standing over her bed with the knife in hand. She and Tom had taken the knife away from Letty, and Martha had gone to the graveyard to bury it while Tem watched over his sick wife. "I hid it-where you found it." A ilittle later Lewy suffered a hemorrhage "She died early this morning." Bot Reynolds pressed fer further. "I did it!" Martha screamed, "I killed her, I hated ther. She spread stories about Tom and Miss MacTavish." Martha then went dato detail of how she went to Alicla's house and waited for her chance, waited until Jim MacTavish left Alicia and then

"There's a short cut through the woods, and it isn't far. I got my sister to bed and to sleep. As I've already told you, Tom w_ out of the house. I found Mrs. Stevenson was not alone. I waited-"

"She wasn't alone?" Bob jerked ther up sharply.

Miss Martha shook her head. "Mr. MacTavish was with her," she said, and now Megan held her breath and her teeth were clenched. "He left a few minutes after I got there. They had been quarreling. I could only hear a word or two, but I, could tell, just looking in at the window, that Mr. MacTavish was very angry and that Mrs. Stevenson was laughing at him."

Megan could see the picture as though she herself had stood outside that window, and it made her shudder. Yet here was the thing that had worried her father-an alibi. She drew a breath of sharp relief.

"I walted until he had gone," Miss Martha went on wearlly. "Then I knocked and she opened the door. She was surprised to see me, and not very-pleasant. I tried to tell her why I had come, but she only laughed. She said that there must be a lot of truth in the stories about Tom and Miss MacTavish or he and I would not have been so alarmedand she added that she knew that Letty was-out of her mind-and that she was a menace to the neighborhood. She said she intended to start a movement to have her-committed-" Her voice broke, and after a superhuman effort at control, she said thinly, "And so-I killed

He still sat on the corner of the desk, and ne scrubbed out the glowing tip of his eigarette as he spoke, his eyes on the crushed eighrette in the old glass ashtray, his voice very quiet and gentle, "The truth is, Miss Evans, that you spoke to Mrs. Stevenson, and she answered you about as you have said. You did not kill her-but when you turned to leave the house, you were astounded to see your sister in the doorway behind you, and realized that she had foltowed you. And it was, in reality, your sister, not you, who killed Mrs. Stevenson,'

Bob sighed. He ran his handa through his hair and stood up, white and tired, haggard almost, as though the long scene had been almost as much of an ordeal for him as for the broken, suddenly old woman be-

"But how could you possibly 'know-" Megan demanded of Bob. It was late in the afternoon of an extremely heetic day after all the loose ends and the final details of the tragic story had been cleared up. Miss Martha and Tom had departed on their and errand of "taking Letty home" to lay beside the little son who had never lived. Megan had asked Bob and Laurence to slay for supper and they had accepted gratefully. And now they were in the living room, with Jim listening and looking on, withdrawn and pale, but genial and pleasant when spoken to. "I didn't know, of course," Bob answered frankly. "It was just that —well, call it a hunch, what you will. Only I kept hearing something in Miss Martha's words that didn't quite ring true. What she was saying would be completely sincere and convincing. Then something would creep into the story, nothing I could set my finger on, but it was there and I could sense it. Especially that very claborate ruse of hiding the knife. If it had really been a knife out of the kitchen of her own home, she might have hidden it very carefully about the house. But to get herself up like a particularly terrifying ghost and go sneaking out into the night to hide it in the one place she felt sure would never be found-well, that had me puzzled." "I thought of that, too, of course, "

Laurence contributed. Then when she began to talk about going to Mrs. Stevenson'sremember she mentioned the short cut through the woods? Yet she had been at some pains to assure us that her slater's afrength was not sufficient for her to wolk to the Stevenson place. But if there was a short cut through the woods, and if her sister, in one of her periods of lucidity, had followed her and overheard her quarrel with the Stevenson woman, and the sister had been frightened, excited, as she most ce: dixir, that spilled an oblong of goldtainly would have been-do you see? The night was very still, save for the faint shouts of children playing somewhere along the highway; behind her in the barn she heard the rustling of the cows as they settled themselves down for the night. Healthly tired at the end of the day, sleeping soundly at night, Megan discovered, as week followed week, that the memory of those dark, evil days when Alicia Steven-It was already dusk, though not son's malicious tongue had wagged so freely, was growing fainter.

And she realized that Pleasant Grove, as a community, was also recovering from the darkness when Alicia's tongue had set old friends to eyeing each other with more or less veiled suspicion. Other farm families were finding release from dark memories in the ever new, yet age-old miracle of the dark earth, the tiny seeds, the new, tender green sprouts that meant life and hope and the future.

She was touched and grateful to Jim for his honest, if bungling, attempts to help her. She tried not to letchim know that his hands were clumsy with the delicate, fragile plants that he tried to pack. She knew he was bored, and that he resented the hard, back-breaking labor that it takes to run a farm effectively.

He came back from Meadersville late one afternoon, his eyes shining with excitement, obviously with news that he considered of great importance,

It was already dusk, and the darkness had driven Megan in from the fields. She had shed her earthstained dungarees, had a shower and was dressed for supper, busy in the citchen helping Annie with the last duties of getting the meal on the table, when Jim came hurrying in.

"The most marvelous thing has happened, Meggie—I've been offered a splendid opportunity!" "Tell me," said Megan, eager and interested, loving him for the understanding she had acquired of him since his moment of self-revelation after Alicia's death. "Well, you know the county newspaper in Meadersville? The Sentiexcited as a boy. "Dick Morgan pubhe comes back!"

Jim looked a little sulky.

Dick feels that I have other qualifications," he pointed out. "And Mrs. Morgan will stay on as business manager and write the woman's page and all that. What I'll have to do is write the editorials, and what news I can pick up. Mostly, right now, it comes from a wire service, because about the only two things people are interested in are the war and politics. Kathleen Norris Says:

A Way With Men

Bell Syndlente .- WNU Features

"Most boys are not smart enough to keep a conversation going; that is the girl's job, and he resents it if she falls down on it."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

THY men want to marry certain women and don't want to marry others, is a mystery no one has ever been able to solve.

A woman can be everything admirable; pretty, clever, capable, pure and men will pass her by. Older men, younger men, popular men and unpopular men, no man sees Winifred at all. Her wornen friends tell them about her; "I've asked Winifred Martin for you. She's a dar-ling. You'll love her." But they never find her a darling, and they never love her.

On the other hand, there are women like Adele, Adele has been a completely worthless character all during the 20 years since she was 10. She has married three times, the is treating her present hands and fast us she slid the two parvess, ereo, and this marriage will red in dispers as the suffer mos

PLAYING HER PART

Some wamen are popular with men, while others who may be prettier and more intelligent, are not. Miss Norris explains that women who gain and hold men's interest know a Jew little tricks, and use them. She tells about a noman in her thirties scho, although neither beautiful nor wealthy, is always able to attract the attentions of almost any man she wishes.

Her little technique is to be always feminine, always helpless and dependent. She lets the man she is with help her over rough spots in the road, or show her how to swim better; anything to make him feel superior and capable. Her conversation is not brilliant, but she keeps it going, and she puts in a good bit of flattery for her male companion. She gives the impression that she is friendly and happy.

Too many girls, says Miss Norris, are shy and authward pecause tury are really egotty tical. They expect the man to play to them, to flatter them, to carry the hurden of conversation. Many men are unable to do this. They expect the girl to keep the talk flowing, to maintain the easy, pleasant relationship of close friends.

If hen a girl finally realizes that she must play her part, and a bit more in the game, she is past her youth, with all its natural charm. She must then try doubly hard to be interesting.

Bread Makes the Pudding! (See Recipes Below)

Don't Waste Bread!

Most of us don't think it matters

one way or the other whether we throw away a stale slice of bread, but, if each family were to save a slice of bread every day, the amount would feed many millions of hungry families who are less fortunate. Small families, particularly find that the average loaf of bread dries rather quickly, and there are several slices within the week that are regarded as unfit for sandwiches. But there are literally thousands of uses for such bread,

Why not start on a campaign of your own just to see how much you can save by using signed a long-term contract with every scrap of bread well? Spread the word to your friends and neigh-

The Know-How of Hed Care: Beds should be cleaned on the day that you give a thorough cleaning to the bedroom. Remove all blankels, theets and pillows to a chair. Draw the mattress off the bed so that the frame may he dusted thoroughly. Box springs may be cleaned with a vacuum clean and dust may also be gathered from wire springs with the vacuum. Wire springs may also be wiped with a clean, lintless cloth that has a lew drops of lemon all sprinkled on it.

The mattress should be gone over thoroughly with a vacuum cleaner on both sides. This, of course, may be done on the bed or chair.

Change the mottress pad frequently, and fit the sheets enter fully at the corners, tucking them well underneath the mattress when you make the bed.

Question-Do you think somehing clas may take the place of the scriptures in this modern age? Annwer-Rend Indiah 40:8: "Tho grans withereth, the flower fadeth: but the Word of our God shall itand for ever." And Jeaus said: Heaven and earth shall pass away. but My words shall not pass away." Matthew 24:35.

Q.-How can I tell true religion? A .- Rend James 1:27: "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their atfilction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world." Also Isalah 8:20: "To the law and to the testimony: If they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them." Q.-Can one born out of wedlock enter heaven? A .- Why not? Read Romans 10: 13: "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." Also Revelation 23:17: "And the Spirit and the bride say, come. And let him that heareth say, Come. And let him that is athirst come. And whoseever will, let blm take the water of life freely." The national law of Douteronomy 23:2 has nothing to do with the salvation of any human being. Q .- Why does the Bible say that there is one glory of the sun and another glory of the moon? (1 Corinthians 15:41.) isn't all light the same?

A. - Decause they differ in amount of light and kind of light. ilead the text: "There is one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars for one star differeth from another star in glory." Light from the sun or any other self-luminous body can be reflected in any direction, but light once reflected cannot be reflected in all directions. There is a plane in which it refuses to be reflected at an angle of 51-25'. It is then said to be polarlied. By means of the polariscope, It is possible to examine a ray of light from a heavenly body and de-termine whether it is from a self-luminous sun, a planet, or a satellite, Ho we see the libble is scientific In its statement that "there is one plory [or brilliance] of the sun, and another glory of the moon."
